It is important to have a date with your partner once a week. Here are some guidelines for the date:

- Each member of the couple will select five places or things to do on a date.
- One week you (one in the coupleship) will plan the date. The next week your partner will plan the date. If there is a problem or question about going on the date, you and your partner will call your couple-sponsors.
- When on the date there will be no discussion of finances, family, jobs, schools, other meetings, friends, couple issues etc.
- Try to learn something new about your partner.
